ABOUT ONE MIND

One Mind connects the dots to improve research for brain disease and injury. When researchers, universities, pharmaceutical and device companies, and industry collaborate – from around the country and world – better diagnostics, treatments and cures will be made available to patients in years, not decades. We support development of cutting edge research because we are passionate about the patient! We are a big idea, one-of-a-kind organization, dedicated to reforming the research ecosystem and creating large public-private partnerships, governed by open science principles in the pre-competitive period. Our vision is advancing a model that will forever change the way we fund and conduct research to cure all diseases – we connect the dots.
